Farewell Honors Lillian Mikkelsen

On November 28 at the Christian and Missionary Alliance Tabernacle, a farewell service and social was held for Miss Lillian Mikkelsen who left the following night for New York enroute to Curacao, Netherlands West Indies.

The farewell was an "Early Christmas" with a well decorated tree was on the platform with many lovely useful gifts at the foot of it.

Rev. Ashdown, as chairman, opened the program, as he asked the congregation to rise and sing a well known hymn "Joy to the World". Mr. Murray led in prayer, after which Fae Reber was called upon to recite "To Children Over the Sea". Marjorie Matthews rendered a piano solo "Beautiful Star of Heaven". Then the congregation joined in singing another carol, "It Came upon the Midnight Clear". Gerald Reber was called upon then to recite after which Wallace and Gary Myers sang "Silent Night". With Fern McMan at the piano another piano solo was enjoyed, and then singing another carol by Marjorie and Carol Matthews.

Rev. Ashdown brought a short message from Acts 26:16-19. He said like Paul, Lillian could say that she had not been disobedient unto the heavenly vision, because she was going forth with the gospel to turn men and women from darkness to light, and from the power of Satan, unto God. He spoke also of the Lord's protection over those who do His will.

Jona and Larry Meria were then called to the platform to sing a song in which they wished Lillian a Merry Christmas and a happy landing.

The gifts were then presented to Lillian, after which she thanked all those who had helped in various ways to make this possible. Her last wish in obedience to the Lord's command. She said "This is the best Christmas that I have ever had."

The program closed with the singing of a hymn "If Jesus Goes With Me, I'll Go" and George Ford dismissed the congregation with prayer.

A social time was then enjoyed with Mrs. Ashdown in charge, after which the ladies of the Tabernacle served a delicious lunch which included Christmas cake.

Lillian opened her gifts and even though the night was well spent, many thanks were given for a further time of fellowship.

Basketball Ramblings

On Saturday, November 29, the Eskimos weren't the only ones to see their hopes go up in smoke. In a high school tournament at Wainwright, both boys' and girls' teams from Irma took a drubbing.

In the first game of the day the Wainwright boys trounced an out-classed Irma team 47-7 and the girls followed up by losing to Wainwright 21-5.

In the other half of the games Provost downed Vermilion 16-14 in a hard-fought game. The Vermilion girls retained the Provost team 25-12 and then defeated Wainwright 22-11 in the final. The Wainwright boys soundly whipped Provost 50-21 in the final game.

The following Tuesday the Wainwright boys came up to Irma and again Irma took a beating. The first quarter looked like it would be a good game as Irma held an 8-4 lead and then dropped behind 10-8 at the whistle. In the second quarter Wainwright added 12 unanswered points. The third quarter was again close, as each team scored three times. Wainwright led 28-14. Then Wainwright added seven points without a reply in the final quarter.

Lineups:

Wainwright:
Carter 0; Bethune 18; Fallon 8; May 3; Koch 6; Adams 0; Mitchell 0.

Irma:

Prior 0; Enger 0; Mason 8; Frickelton 4; Ingils 0; Dunbar 0; K. Fischer 2; D. Fischer 0; Tomlinson 0; Allen 0.

Final score 35 to 14 in favor of Wainwright.

Beef Calf Club Enjoy Tour

Twenty of us left Irma by bus and stopped first at Clem Loughlin's farm at Viking where Clem met us with a big smile of welcome. Here Gordon Firkus picked us out a good calf of suitable age and type to start feeding from a fine herd of Shorthorns.

Next stop was near Killam to see Mr. Sid Walker's good Herefords. He showed us a cow and calf he had entered in Camrose sale. Mrs. Walker and some ladies of the district gave us a lunch that really hit the spot on a cold day.

Also near Killam we visited the outstanding Aberdeen Angus herd of Ken Gibb who had just returned from Calgary Fall Sale where he had had Grand Champion female. We had one of the club members pick out what he considered the best bull in one of the pens.

Then we took a long drive to Gould's of Rosalind, home of one of the top Hereford herds of Alberta. Stan took out a calf they were starting to fit and gave us a lecture on the points to look for in selecting a calf. He is a capable judge and showman, having been to Edmonton, Calgary and Toronto to many times with show cattle. The Gould's also gave us lunch.

After dinner in Camrose everyone went their own way for an hour and then into the bus and out to see Francis Mohler's Herefords.

The last stop was at the farm of Roy Ballhorn. The Ballhorns are winners of the Master Farm Family Award. This farm, one of the show places of Alberta, is stocked with a top herd of Blacks. As it was feeding time the herdsmen could not spend much time with us.

Before starting the long trip we had a very fine lunch at the hotel and received a very fine handful of balloons. We went back to Camrose for supper and then home. We were tired but I believe it gave us a lot to think about. We hope to go again sometime.

A successful organization meeting of Irma Junior Beef Club was held Saturday, November 22. Largest membership to date included the following:

The Value Of Trees

THOSE WHO HAVE TRAVELLED widely in Canada are aware of the great areas of the country which are covered with forests and lakes. Of the 3,462,000 square miles which make up Canada's total area, 1,275,000 square miles are forests. Only about one-half of this forest area is classified as being productive, but nevertheless, more than one-third of the land is covered with trees and the forests provide one of Canada's greatest sources of national revenue. The Prairie Provinces are not among the most heavily forested areas, although all of them have large tracts of wooded land, especially in the northern sections.

Farmers Have Planted Trees

In the prairie regions, however, there are many farms where trees have been planted to provide windbreaks and to preserve the soil. Tree planting on the prairies has been highly successful and there is no longer any question as to whether it is possible to grow trees on the prairie land. These trees, planted by the farmers not only provide shade and shelter from the wind, but they play their part in the continuing war against soil erosion and drought. In storing moisture and preventing soil drifting, trees are one of the most important weapons in the fight to preserve the soil.

Must Provide More Moisture

It has not always been easy to obtain groves of trees planted on the prairie farm lands but knowledge of scientific methods of growing trees has helped to overcome difficulties arising from plant diseases, insects, lack of moisture and extremes of temperature. One of the greatest problems in growing trees successfully on the prairies is the lack of sufficient moisture to ensure their natural growth and to make them resistant to other hazards. Many farmers overcome this difficulty by providing additional moisture through irrigation, a method recommended by forestry experts. Trees are a permanent asset to the farm, and the planting of trees on the prairies has proven to be a successful and rewarding undertaking on many of hundreds of Western farms.

Upset About High Prices? Try Buying In Yukon

WHITEHORSE, Y.T.—A housewife in Dawson City or Mayo pays about 50 per cent. more for groceries than her counterpart on the "outside". In Whitehorse, she pays about a third more. The average family of four in Dawson pays upwards of $150 a month for groceries and in Whitehorse upwards of $100.

Wood, the basic fuel of the territory, costs about $30 a cord in Dawson and about $19 here. It is not hard to burn two cords a month during a Yukon winter. Oil, common in kitchens, cost 30 cents a gallon here and considerably more in Dawson.

Transportation costs, are of course, the chief reason for the high prices. Most of the territory's food is imported from Vancouver or Seattle, with some coming from Edmonton.

Food from Vancouver and Seattle is shipped by plane or boat to Juneau, Alaska, and thence by train to Whitehorse. During the winter, most perishable foods are shipped here direct by air.

Dawson, Mayo and other towns north of here get food by river boat or road in summer and by road alone in winter.

Here are some comparative prices.
Coffee—Whitehorse $1.23 to $1.30 a pound; Dawson $1.40.
Tea—Whitehorse $1.25 to $1.30 a pound; Dawson $1.45.
Milk—Whitehorse 22 cents a can; Dawson 20 cents.
Soups—Whitehorse 20 cents a can; Dawson 23 cents.
Salmon—Whitehorse $1.17 a 1-pound tin; Dawson $1.30.
Sugar—Whitehorse 17 cents a pound; Dawson 18 cents.

In Manhattan, when two gunmen held up a candy store, one of them sidled up to Salegiri Juanita Christian and murmured: "Don't be frightened. I'm just as scared as you are."

In Cleveland, Mrs. Harriet Jones won a divorce after testifying that when she about to have a baby, her husband dropped her off at the hospital emergency room, then hurried around the corner to have a date with a nurse.

Ten-year-old Roy Thompson, of Liverpool, Eng., went to hospital to have a steel splinter taken out of his finger. Six hours later he had his appendix removed but the splinter was still in the finger. He had been mistaken for another patient.

GEORGE BOYOT, eight, of St. Clairsville, Ohio, flashes a big smile as he grasps one of the watermelons which may save his life. George is suffering from nephritis, a kidney disease, which the vitamins supplied by the melon may combat. Appeals already have resulted in three carloads of melons and more have been promised.

PRECIPITATION ON PRAIRIES BELOW NORMAL

WINNIPEG.—Precipitation summary for the Prairie provinces issued by the meteorologist office in Winnipeg recently showed all three provinces received below normal moisture in the three months ending Oct. 31.

Alberta showed the biggest deficiency with a provincial average .83 inches below normal. Manitoba was .76 inches below normal, and Saskatchewan down .54 inches.

The biggest deficiencies show in the southern areas of the provinces. Fall moisture has a big bearing on the outlook for the next season's grain crop.

Of 23 points reporting in Alberta, only two showed above normal precipitation for the three-month period. In Manitoba, five of the 16 reporting points showed above normal. In Saskatchewan above normal precipitation was received by eight out of 25 points.

Funny and Otherwise

A woman who was ill was examined in her home by a doctor, who said she should be taken to hospital at once by ambulance.

A couple of hours later, after the doctor had gone to the hospital, the admitting clerk told him that the husband had arrived in the ambulance—without his wife.

Fuzzled, the doctor sent for the man. "Didn't you understand that the ambulance was sent for your wife?" he said.

"We had an argument," the husband answered, blandly, "and she took the bus."

He was awakened in the middle of the night by his nervous wife, who said, "I hear sounds as though someone's coming up the stairs."

"What's the time?" he asked sleepily.

"Two o'clock," replied the wife. "Call right," he said, turning over; "it'll be me."

Pupil: "Do you think it's right to punish folks for things they haven't done?"

Teacher: "Why, of course not, Willie."

Booming Town

Lynn Lake, Manitoba, One Of Brightest Stars In Canada's Mineral World

LYNN LAKE, Man.—This booming mine town, one of the brightest new stars in Canada's mineral world, soon will be diffusing new wealth into the national economy. Nestling in the Manitoba wilds just south of the 57th parallel, the town's expanding mine is considered the world's richest source of copper-nickel ore from the great mines Sudbury, Ont.

Within a year a 145-mile rail line will link it with supply routes to the south, hauling ore estimated to be worth $14,000,000 yearly to world markets. Much of it will go to Canada's defence production and for stockpiling.

Development costs at Lynn Lake are great. About $50,000,000 will have been spent by late fall of 1953 when the Sherritt Gordon mine is expected to start production. Already ore worth $175,000,000 at current prices has been blocked out.

The rail line, estimated to cost about $15,000,000, is being pushed through rocky terrain and muskeg by the Canadian National Railways. When completed it will reach north-east from Sherritt 390 miles north-west of Winnipeg.

Aircraft and tractor trains have been the chief forms of transportation since the district was opened 11 years ago. A few made the trip by canoe and on foot.

Some 500 men now are working on the line. By Oct. 5 the complete right-of-way had been cleared, the roadbed graded for 85 miles and 25 miles of track laid.

Engineering and construction problems—despite modern equipment—are as challenging as those which faced the men who built the first transcontinental line across Northern Ontario 70 years ago.

The Lynn line will open the same possibilities for pioneers who advanced across the Prairies toward a new life. The route may serve as the springboard for all of northern Manitoba, rich in scarce and untouched minerals.

As ore trundles south, homes and equipment from the defunct Sherritt mine will move north. Last winter tractor trains working round-the-clock trekked 72 houses and countless tons of mining machinery, dismantled there and now erected here.

Homes were plucked from their foundations, placed on sleighs and

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY

Church On Sunday

Jerry Said To Ruth, "I Can't Promise the House and Garden Right Away, But I'll Take You To Church On Sunday".

By
VEGA BROWN

"Boss," bubbled Ruth happily, leaning over the grill counter, "I've got a job for Jerry—a nice job. Mr. Clark is taking him on as a branch bookkeeper."

I hated to drive the light out of her eyes, but someone had to put her wise. "One of Manlof's gang takes a job," I growled. "That I have yet to see."

"Jerry's not one of the gang!" Her face flushed. "Get wise, Ruthie," I said. "Has this Jerry Bronson character ever asked you to marry him?"

"No-o-o," she said, then brightened. "He wouldn't ask a girl until he had a steady job."

"I warn you—that guy won't take any job with work attached." "You're unfair!" Because he's different you say he's no good. He's real refined when he talks to you," she added dreamily.

"Refined!" he says. When I see that waterfront loafer talking out the side of his mouth to Manlof, he's just another—"I broke off short. "Talk of the devil!"

Ruth ran to meet him, her voice raised excitedly, telling about the job. But he wasn't interested, wasn't even listening.

"Has Manlof been in yet?" he asked. "No!" I said. "An' never is soon enough. But Clark's a swell guy to work for."

"I know," said Jerry. "But I'm expecting to close a big deal to-night."

Ruth started off bravely on a new track. "It's such a pretty little town," she said persuasively. "Maybe you'd find a nice girl and get married—have a house and garden. There'd be nice friends, and on Sundays you'd go to church, and later on there might be kiddies!"

The poor little dove! I thought.

"Hey, you're going too fast," he cut in. "Do you—" He stopped, his eyes hardened and the smile ebbed from his face.

Ruth clung to his arm as Manlof shouldered his way into a booth followed by Max and Tony.

"Hi, baby!" he shouted. "Mine's a good beef—an' shake those pretty gams."

"I'll take their order, Ruth," I said. "They don't bother me," she snapped. I knew what was eating her; she was hurt that Jerry would stand for him talking to her like that.

When Ruth returned with the orders, Jerry had joined them, and the four heads were close together. I knew that they were up to no good.

Both Manlof and Tony had done time for smuggling. I heard Manlof say, "Okay, Bronson. Midnight sharp." The big bug made a pass at Ruth, but she was too quick for him.

She went back to the kitchen, but a minute later out poked her head. "Mr. Bronson—wanted on the phone."

Jerry rose and followed her. Presently Ruth returned alone, and I gasped when she took the vacant seat next to Manlof. His arm went round her, and I moved quickly, but she shook her head. "I snagged my shoulders; something was cooking that I couldn't figure. Suddenly Manlof jumped to his feet and grabbed her hat. The others followed; they looked badly worried guys to me."

Ruth watched them go with a contented smile. A noise of muffled shouting and heavy blows filtered into the room.

"What the—" I said starting off towards the noise. Ruth checked me. "It's only Jerry," she said. "He's locked in the store-room. I told him the phone was wrong."

"Let him out pronto," I snapped. "An' no more monkey business or you're fired."

A moment later Jerry burst in. "Where are they?" "Where?" "I don't know," I said. "Better ask Ruth."

He turned on her. "Well?" "Where you won't and them!" she said, defiantly.

He started for the door, but Ruth grabbed him. "Please, Jerry," she begged. "They'll kill you!"

He seized her by the shoulders, his eyes probing hers. "How many would they want to kill me?"

"Oh, Jerry," she faltered. "I couldn't bear your being mixed up with that mob—I told them you were a stooge working for the Customs."

He threw up his hands. "That's a woman for you!" he said.

"There's that nice job with Mr. Clark," said Ruth, her eyes appealing. She looked so tragic that he bit his lip. "Can't you take a joke, Bronson?" I said. "Little Ruthie's scaring off those toughs—what a laugh!"

"That's funny," he said sourly. "I am a Customs agent. I'd have nabbed that gang tonight red-handed if she hadn't ruined everything."

Ruth burst into tears. "She did it for your sake, Bronson," I said. "How was the kid to know?"

His mouth relaxed, his arm went round her shoulders. "Come, come, honey," he said. "There's nothing to cry about. I'm quitting the Customs anyway, and I'll see Clark in the morning."

Then as she looked up starry-eyed, he added huskily, "I can't promise the house and garden right away, but I'll take you to church on Sunday."

Number Of Families In Canada Up, But Family Size Down

OTTAWA—The number of families in Canada increased by almost 700,000 in the last ten years, but the size of the average family declined. The bureau of statistics reported that the number of families climbed to 3,207,000 in 1951 from 2,525,000 in 1941. In that same period, Canada's total population jumped to 14,000,000 from 11,500,000.

During the decade the size of the average family slipped to 3.7 from 3.9 persons.

In Ontario, where the number of families increased to 1,182,000 from 900,000, the size of the average family dropped to 3.4 persons from 3.6.

In Quebec, traditional home of the large family, the number of families increased to 856,000 from 647,000 but the average size slipped to 4.2 from 4.5.

With this decline, Newfoundland outranked Quebec as the province with the largest average family. The numbers in Canada's newest province increased to 74,000 from 69,000 but the size of the average family remained unchanged at 4.4 persons.

Statistics Canada's showed up as the province with the smallest average family, a position she held in 1941. The number of families increased to 296,000 from 199,000, but the size of the average slipped to 3.3 from 3.4.

Saskatchewan showed the smallest family increase and the largest drop in size. Numbers rose to 106,000 from 190,000 and the size declined to 3.7 from 4.1.

Manitoba's families climbed to 151,000 from 166,000 and the size declined to 3.6 persons from 3.8.

Alberta's families showed a sharp advance to 225,000 from 175,000, but the size of the average family dropped to 3.7 from 3.9.

Seed Experts Seek Antidote Virulent Stem Rust Strain

Dr. C. H. Goulden and A. H. Parker Start Six Weeks Tour of Seed-Growing Stations In South American Countries

OTTAWA—Two Canadian seed experts have embarked on a Latin-American tour as another step in Canada's campaign to find an antidote to the virulent 15-B stem rust which threatened Prairie wheat crops last spring.

Dr. C. H. Goulden, Dominion cerealist, and A. H. Parker of Gilbert Plains, Man., president of the Canadian Seed Growers' Manitoba section, have started a six-weeks tour of co-operative seed-growing stations in six South American countries.

They will examine hundreds of varieties of seed to judge how resistant they are to the fungus growth, believed to have originated in the south and carried by wind to the United States and Canada.

However, they will do more than examine what other countries are doing. Canada has a new wheat variety the experts are reluctant to talk about and which research men are confident may prove impregnable against the rust.

So far only a few bushels of the variety have been developed. It is being tested in Canada and at stations the experts will visit in Argentina, Brazil, Chile, Colombia, Peru and Ecuador.

By the time the men return they may know how resistant the new variety is against 15-B as well as

Population Grows By 1,149 A Day

OTTAWA—Canada's population is increasing by 1,149 per day, the Bureau of Statistics reported.

The bureau said that during the census year of June 1, 1951, to June 1, 1952, there were 1,036 births and 332 deaths each day. Immigrants arrived at the rate of 590 a day, and emigrants left on an average of 145 daily.

This meant a net population gain of 419,385 per year, or 1,149 per day.

THE WORLD OF WHEAT

By H. G. L. Strange
HOW OLD IS WHEAT?

A High School Student studying agriculture has asked us the question: "How old is wheat?"

For many years our Research Department has been studying the history of world agriculture in its several interesting ramifications. The answer to the question is that no one knows, but the probability is that the wheat plant, as we see it today, together with barley and oats, rye and flax, goes back tens of thousands of years. The recorded history of agriculture goes back 5,000 years; at that remote time the wheat plant, and the plants of other cereals, were much as we see them today. Modern plant breeders have modified varieties to survive and produce better under varying conditions, but have not essentially changed the nature or structure of the original wheat plant. One is forced, then, to have a great deal of respect for those ancient plant breeders who first produced wheat, and other economic domesticated plants. The study of the ancient history of agriculture is most fruitful, for it must be true that to know the past makes one better equipped to understand our present agriculture, and so to be better able to forecast its future. It is certainly to be hoped that research and study into the past of agriculture will continue.

Twenty-five years ago Canadians ate an average of 20½ lbs. of canned fruits and vegetables per person per year; today they eat almost 43 pounds.

The Royal Winter Fair

Most of my readers will recall that the writer has just visited the Royal Winter Fair at Toronto. Of course my mission to Toronto was in capacity of Chaparone for the judging teams. As such we received only one day to take in Canada's No. 1 Agricultural Exhibition, and because of the very limited time we spent there I can hardly begin to give any details on the Fair, but rather I would like to give you my brief impressions. The Royal Winter Fair is immense in size and quality of exhibits. Exhibits from every province in Canada and from other countries are entered. The most beautiful spectacle of the Fair is the flower show; this to most westerners is appalling. The livestock entries consists of representation of all recognized breeds of beef and dairy cattle. (Incidentally this is the first time I had seen the Canadian Cow, a dairy breed popular in Quebec). Also swine, sheep and horses. Entries of Poultry and Pet Stock are most striking in the number of different breeds and specimens represented. The grain exhibits are most attractive by their size and quality which speaks true when you consider the fact that these entries are especially selected by each province and all nine provinces competing supplemented by entries from other nations, then you can appreciate the quality and scope of Canada's outstanding Agriculture Fair. Another feature of the Fair which I felt had considerable value was that this is a meeting place for farmers and persons from various centres of Canada and other nations. This alone merits a visit to the Royal Winter Fair. Not only can you view Canada's Agricultural economy under one roof but you can meet and acquaint yourself with Canadians from other provinces and their way of living.

In this regard I feel that the experience of acquaintance and association that our judging teams from this district and Alberta gained with that of other provinces is the most beneficial reward of their trip. The trip itself was a real education to the members of the judging teams and yours truly. I can hardly find space to elaborate on this point and as of the standings of our teams, well, briefly the grain and beef teams stood fourth, the dairy team stood seventh, which is not bad considering the competition is very keen. However I was most impressed by the support that the commercial firms and other organizations offer to the 4-H Club work. It seems that their interest is based more on the fact that the 4-H Club work builds citizenship in farm boys and girls. Such mottoes of 4-H clubs as "Learn to do by doing" are also entreeing. Their only regret is that a large number of rural youth are not members of the 4-H Clubs.

These are briefly a few of my impressions.

Announcements From Ottawa Re Floor Prices

Ottawa, Sept. 25, 1952.—Following a Cabinet meeting, the Minister of Agriculture today stated that in accordance with previous announcements, a support price for cattle would continue until the U.S. embargo against Canadian livestock and meat is lifted. Until the embargo is lifted or until April 1, 1953, whichever is the earlier, the support price will be $23.00 per 100 pounds, basis "good" steers at Toronto. If the embargo continues after that date the support price will be raised to $25.00 per 100 for "good" steers, basis Toronto delivery.

The Minister also stated that in order to protect those farmers who had held back and finished their cattle during the summer period and who might not yet have marketed their heavy steers and heifers, the Board would continue until November 15, 1952, to maintain a floor price of $25.00 per 100 lbs. live weight for heavy steers and heifers (carcasses 700 pounds and up, cold dressed weight, fat in basis, including the Grades A, B and C).

In making this announcement the Minister re-emphasized the importance of farmers continuing to hold their cattle and pointed out that the continuation of present floor prices for next spring is designed to provide ample incentive for this action or for other farmers to purchase and winter stocker feeder cattle.

The Minister reported that out of a possible 63 million pounds of beef nearly 50 million has already been purchased for delivery to Great Britain under the meat exchange plan. Because of the small amount of the contract left and restricted storage space, it is clear that the price support program cannot be based solely on the purchase of meat but can be greatly assisted by the co-operation of livestock owners.

"Direct" price support through the purchase of beef will not extend to types which we are wanting producers and others not to bring to market," the Minister stated. "In short, it will be our intention to do everything possible to keep cattle not fully fed from being slaughtered in order that there will be a market or storage for finished beef."

Ottawa, Sept. 25, 1952.—The Minister of Agriculture announced today that the present floor price for hogs equivalent to $26.00 per hundred pounds warm dressed wt. for grade A carcasses basis Toronto and Montreal, would be maintained until December 31, 1952. After that date a floor price of $23.00 per hundred pounds would be established on the same basis. In making this announcement, the Minister indicated that the Gov't wished to maintain the present floor through the fall marketing period for hogs now on feed.

Canada's Growth

FROM TIME TO TIME the prophecy is made by speakers and writers that Canada's population will more than double its present size by the end of this century. There is no doubt but that there is room here for a much larger population than we now have and that there are opportunities for many in the development of our natural resources and the extension of our farm lands. Since the war 200,000 immigrants have come to Canada from other lands and statistics show that a large proportion of them have settled in Eastern Canada, many in the larger cities, where they have been absorbed into industry.

Increase In Fifty Years

If we reach the goal set by those who aspire to raise Canada's population to thirty or forty millions in the next fifty years, a high rate of immigration will have to be maintained. One writer has calculated that such a program would mean that about 225,000 new citizens would have to be admitted annually between now and the year 2000. It is interesting to note that in the past fifty years Canada's population increased from 5,371,215 to 14,000,429. This period included the great influx of people from other countries in the early years of this century, when immigration reached record heights. Between 1901 and 1911, more than 1,800,000 new citizens came to Canada, and very large numbers were admitted in the following years, up to the outbreak of the First World War in 1914.

Many Came To The West

This influx took place when the wheat-growing land of the prairies was being opened to settlers and many of the newcomers came here. Between the years 1901 and 1941 the population of Saskatchewan increased from 91,279 to 385,952. However, in the next ten-year period it dropped slightly to 329,175. Manitoba grew from 255,211 in 1901 to 336,515 in 1952 while in the same period Alberta has grown from 73,002 to 336,556. These figures show that many new citizens have been attracted to the prairie provinces in the last fifty years. If the population of Canada increases greatly through immigration in the next half century, many of the newcomers will no doubt settle in the West and changes as great or greater than those which have taken place since 1900 may be expected.

The only eastern team to place was the St. Hacinthe, Que., club which won in dairy cattle.

The championships included: Swine, Mountview Swine club, Dean Durston and Kenneth Forbes, Dauphin, Man.

Poultry: McIntyre poultry club, Ruth Rodin and Edythe Sumner, McIntyre, Man.

Beef Cattle: Whitewood 4-H club, Lesley Bowman and Wilfred Davis, Whitewood, Sask.

Grain: Grenfell 4-H grain club, Gordon Amy and Lorne Loveridge, Grenfell, Sask.

UNSPORTSMANLIKE

Mr. W. A. Hartwell of Saskatchewan Department of Natural Resources, says hunting at night with a light was the most serious offense committed. The practice was particularly dangerous, both to livestock and residents of an area, he pointed out, adding that it was harmful to conservation and "very unsportsmanlike, besides." Deer caught in a blinding beam of light have "no chance at all of escaping," he said. "Three men were fined $300 and costs for night hunting during October."

Diamond cutting was first developed in ancient India.

Funny and Otherwise

"You look a sensible sort of girl—let's get married!" "Not me—I'm as sensible as I look."

My steady girl has fitted me. But it just leaves me yawning. I've been let down so many times I feel just like an angel.

A very stout man was walking along the promenade of a seaside town when he noticed a weighing machine with the notice: "I speak your weight."

He put a penny in the slot and stepped on the weighing platform. A voice answered: "One at a time, please!"

"It's astonishing what love can do to some people. Take young Smith, for instance. He was telling me yesterday that he's met the one girl in all the world for him, prettier than any him star, and her very name, he told me, comes up a vision of the radiant countryside, nestling cottages, larks soaring from flower-dotted meadows, cosy farms down quiet lanes."

"And what's the girl's name?" "Bull!"

Mother had bought father a new tie. "I wonder what would go best with it," she said coyly, as he held it up.

Father eyed the violent-colored horror and replied briefly: "A beard!"

Dennis was taken to his first harvest festival. Among the offerings of fruit and flowers, the bunches of purple grapes greatly took his fancy. When the offertory box came round he put in ten cents and said, confidently, "Grapes, please."

Confronted with the task of paraphrasing the sentence, "He was clad in a suit of mail," a small boy wrote: "He wore a postman's uniform."

It was a small hotel. "Would you like the maid to call you in the morning?" said the proprietor to the guest.

"No," said the guest. "I wake every morning at seven."

"In that case," said the proprietor, "would you mind calling the maid?"

"Hugh, I'm afraid cows' spoil the soup."

"What, again? Give her a month's notice!"

"And I rather think the entree is a failure."

"Confound the woman! Give her two months' notice!"

"Did it cure your husband of walking in his sleep when you put the tub of water by the side of his bed?"

"Yes, and it cured me of putting a tub of water by the side of his bed."

"Two cows is in the field," said a teacher to a class of small boys, indicating the writing on the blackboard. "Now this sentence is wrong. Can anyone tell me why?"

Warily she looked over the anesthetic class. "Come, come!" she said, encouragingly.

One youngster, with a latent spark of chivalry, sought to help her out of the difficulty. "Perhaps one of them is a calf, miss!" he suggested, innocently.

ALL EYES ON PRINCESS' GOWN—Typical feminine interest in the gown worn by Princess Margaret Rose is displayed as she walks past a group of young women on her arrival at a benefit dance for a London housing project. So engrossed were some in the chic evening dress that they didn't quite do full justice with their curtises as she passed.

DEADLIEST OF KILLERS

Traffic Official Warns Of Carbon Monoxide Danger

REGINA.—Every winter needless deaths are caused through one of the deadliest of killers, carbon monoxide, and synchronous with the swift approach of cold weather is a warning to motorists from J. A. Christie, chairman of the Highway Traffic board.

Mr. Christie, in issuing the warning, pointed out that the exhaust from an average car contains seven per cent. of carbon monoxide. If the engine is cold, the carbon monoxide content is considerably higher.

All that is needed to cause death in a matter of minutes is one per cent. of the poisonous gas in the air a person is breathing. Because carbon monoxide is colorless, tasteless and odorless, the danger of the gas is doubled.

Mr. Christie pointed out that carbon monoxide is harmless if it is diffused in the open air, but once it becomes concentrated in a closed garage or automobile, it becomes deadly and can cause death so swiftly that the victim has hardly a chance to save himself.

In view of these facts, said Mr. Christie, motorists should not have to be urged to make sure the exhaust system in their cars is in perfect condition. Even a small leak in the exhaust system can cause fatal concentrations of the gas.

During the winter months, most motorists drive with all the windows closed, thus creating an almost airtight death chamber in cases where exhaust systems are not in proper condition. Many deaths are also caused annually, noted the Highway Traffic Board chairman, when motorists run their cars to warm them up in a closed garage.

At the same time, Mr. Christie issued another brief warning to motorists.

Many motorists, Mr. Christie said, tend to clutter the ledge above the rear seat of their car with loose objects such as shoes, sport drink bottles, metal tools or coat hangers.

Old Indian Village Found Near Brandon

BRANDON.—Archaeologists have found the remains of an Indian village near here that was inhabited between 300 and 500 years ago.

Dr. R. G. McMeish, archaeologist for the National Museum of Canada, has been in charge of digging at the site for three weeks. His team located a mass of buffalo bones and a number of human skeletons in burial pits.

The archaeologists also dug up about 200 arrowheads, bone harpoons and other tools, implements and specimens of pottery.

The village, located on the farm of Frank Stott, appears to have been on the edge of a run where the Assiniboine Indians slaughtered bison.

Dr. McMeish said the human skulls found have the same physical characteristics as those of the Assiniboine Indians and were distinctly different from those of the Cree or Saulteaux Indians.

Prevention Of Winter Accidents

Skate or walk on ice close to shore. Skate or walk on unknown ice in pairs with some distance separating each person. On a moonlight skating party do not wander out of sight of main group.

In the event of a break through the victim should spread his arms on the solid ice. Kick the feet to the surface as in swimming. Try to lean well forward flattening the body as much as possible in an effort to worm forward onto the ice. (This is most difficult feat even with the use of hand spikes.) As soon as the tips are on the ice, roll away from the danger area.

Rescuers should use a pole, branch of a tree, plank, ladder or rope to reach the victim. If a rope is used have a loop in the end thrown to the victim. He can slip his hands through the loop.

Rescuers should remember to spread their weight by lying down. If there is no equipment available—a human chain can be formed and the chain worms its way forward.

Keep survival equipment in car through snow season. Extra warm clothing, blankets, food, shovel, sand, tow rope, flashlight, compass, thermos, hot drink and a good book.

If stalled stay with the car unless road is clear and you can see lights or houses. Shut off motor before exhaust gases leak in and knock you out. Wrap up and read or sleep. If you get cold you'll wake up.

Ice crossings by car or truck, place a loose heavy plank and waterproof bundle of clothing on top of truck load or on a bumper, open window to supply a quick exit. In case of break through the plank will likely float free supplying a life raft. After climbing onto the ice with the use of 6" spikes, the bundle of dry clothing will be most welcome. A small bottle containing dry matches could mean a life saving fire.

Relax and stay home if heavy snow or blizzards are forecast!

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY

THE PROFESSOR

Camille Knew How Much the Honor System in Examinations Meant to Professor Paul.

By MADELINE ANGELL

PROFESSOR PAUL FRAZIER was not himself today. The zoology students filed silently into the classroom. Instead of greeting them with his usual smile, timid but eager, he stared out the window.

There was an unnatural tension among the girls also. No flutter of notebook paper; no pleasant chatter. Each took her seat. And waited.

Paul rose to turn on the light. Even the day was ominously dark. Sleet beat at the windowpanes. As he turned around, he could not resist looking at Camille. Always before, he had returned his gaze with what she flattered himself was a sympathetic response. Today she was staring intently at a diagram on the wall. He found himself wondering if the love he felt for her would be diminished if he knew that she had cheated. That was most unlikely, however, for they had discussed the matter after class, not long ago. She knew how much of himself he had put at stake by giving an exam on the honor system, which had never been used at Windsor College for girls.

Yet his love for this slim girl with the golden beauty was so overpowering that he imagined he would forgive her anything. He turned his cowardice. For all the dreams and plans he had made for Camille and himself, he had not once had the courage to ask her for a date. If only she were not so lovely, or if, on the other hand, he were not so awkward and tongue-tied, once he left the classroom.

"I'm very disappointed in the test," he began. "Not in the grades. The papers I corrected were very high. But I've been informed that many of you referred to your textbooks during the examination." No need to tell them how Miss Graves, the oldest staff member at Windsor, had come to him triumphantly with that news. No need to tell them that he had suffered a personal defeat, because he had always maintained that you had to trust people in order to bring out their best. He picked up the pile of papers he had corrected, and placed it on top of the other pile. "There is only one thing I can do with them." They fell with a thud into the wastepaper basket.

Camille was looking at him now. Her hair was like a patch of midnight. It had escaped the clouding sweater, which was mussed and loose, rose and fell with the rapid rate of her breathing.

"Since I have no way of knowing the guilty, I'll have to write a new test. Rather than wait to have it mimeographed, I'll write the questions on the board." He paused. "I will give this test also on the honor system."

He picked up the chalk. His hands were long and lean, and his knuckles showed. It was the tenderness of his hands, and the largeness of his feet which made him feel so ill at ease in society.

He was about to turn to the blackboard when Camille rose. It was characteristic of her pose that she stood there, straight and tall, with her hands falling loosely at her sides. There were only two bright spots of red in her cheeks to indicate any nervousness. Her voice was low and controlled.

"Professor Frazier, it shouldn't be necessary for everyone in the room to take the test over. Not if those of us who cheated will confess. Her eyes rested on her classmates, silently pleading. "I'm one."

There was a horrified pause before Judy Pierce rose. "I cheated too," Judy whispered.

More chairs were pushed back. Paul interrupted. "Those who wrote an honest test may leave," he said. He turned to the blackboard, and the trembling of his hand made writing difficult.

Paul Frazier waited nervously on the settee in the parlor of Westlawn Hall. As he watched Camille descend the steps, he wondered if the effect of such loveliness would dim with familiarity. He decided against it. At the corner of Westlawn, the shadow of a giant oak broke the glare of a street light into a soft mass of shifting light and shade. Paul stopped and, taking Camille gently by the shoulders, turned her to face him.

"Why did you confess something you didn't do?" he asked softly. "The play of light on her face made it appear ethereal. 'I know how much the honor system meant to you,' she said simply. 'It was the only thing I could think of to restore your faith in us. But how did you know I didn't cheat?'"

He corrected your test paper just a few minutes ago, the first one you wrote."

There was surprise in her voice, and also relief. "You don't mean I flunked!"

His arm slipped to her waist. "No, darling, but you'd have done a lot better if you'd had a book open in front of you. Knowing you haven't cheated, I could think of only one motive for your action in class today. That's what gave me the confidence to come to you tonight."

She came closer. The confession of her love was there, in the softness of her eyes, the tenderness of her smile. Paul forgot that he was shy. He kissed her, and then when he had released her, he kissed her again. (Copyright Western Newspaper Syndicate)

Autumn Recipes

IT'S TIME FOR APPLES, PUMPKINS

Golden pumpkins neighboring with shocks of corn are pleasing to the artistic eye, and give promise to spicy pumpkin pies. With the first signs of autumn, we are inspired to include pumpkin pie in our menu plans, because this dessert is a favorite of most people. Pumpkin pies usually call for eggs, so it is good news for the budget-conscious housewife when her recipe indicates one egg instead of three. The secret of success in this instance is a half cup of corn flakes crumbed finely, which, with one egg, thickens the pumpkin to just the right consistency.

Pumpkin Pie Filling

Half cup Corn Flakes, 1 cup brown sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon ginger, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1 egg (slightly beaten), 1 2/3 cups (13 oz.) evaporated milk, 2 cups canned pumpkin.

Sift together flour and salt. Cut in shortening, until mixture resembles corn meal. Add water and stir until just combined. Roll out on lightly-floured board to about ¼ inch thickness. Line a 9-inch pie pan with pastry.

Crush Corn Flakes into fine crumbs. Mix with sugar, salt and spices. Add egg, evaporated milk and pumpkin; mix well. Pour into unbaked pastry shell. Bake in hot oven (425 deg. F.) 45 minutes.

Yield: One 9-inch pie.

Apple Pie

Apples make the pie, and you can make your choice of several especially recommended varieties. They include Greenings, Rome Beauties, McIntosh and Staymans. As for the ice cream, always keep some handy in a sturdy paraffin carton to have ready for pie à la mode. Vanilla is the old favorite, but chocolate is equally good atop apple pie. If there is a la mode flavors which you'll find pre-packaged in convenient pints and half-gallons are butter pecan, butter almond, banana and pineapple.

Ice Cream Treat

The modern family is likely to look for some special kind of treat. Here one we call Carmel Corn Flakes Rings—your family will call it their favorite dessert.

Carmel Ring

Six cups Corn Flakes, 1½ cups brown sugar, ½ cup butter. Measure Corn Flakes into buttered mixing bowl. Cook sugar and butter in heavy frying pan, stirring constantly until melted and syrup begins to bubble. Pour over Corn Flakes, stirring so that each flake is coated. Pack in small well-buttered ring molds or large mold. Cool. Unmold and serve filled with ice cream.

Cocunut Frosting

Two cups white sugar, ¼ cup sugar, 1½ teaspoons light corn syrup, 1 cup cold water, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1½ cups shredded coconut.

Combine all ingredients except vanilla and shredded coconut in top of double boiler; mix well. Cook over boiling water, beating constantly with rotary beater until mixture forms peaks, about 7 minutes. Remove from heat; add vanilla; beat until of spreading consistency. Shredded coconut may be stirred into frosting or sprinkled on top of frosting after it has been spread on cake. Yield: Frosting for 2-layer cake (8 inches in diameter).

School Lunch

As much care and planning should go into the lunch youngsters take to school as a mother puts into any meal she serves on the dining room table, contends Miss Margaret E. Smith, a nutritionist. Furthermore, the box lunch must have eye appeal as well as high food value.

The noon-day lunch should provide one-third of the whole day's requirements of the energy-producing, body-building foods, notes Miss Smith. "This means proteins, minerals and vitamins for growth and repair of body tissues, and carbohydrates or starches, fats and proteins to yield energy for work and play."

In ordinary grocery store parlance, the nutritional suggestions boil down to these, which are based on Canada's Food Rules:

Include about eight ounces of pasteurized, white milk, varying this occasionally with buttermilk or pure fruit juices.

Put in at least one fresh vegetable—raw carrot strips, celery, a whole tomato, or a little salad made with cabbage, parsley, green peppers or cooked green beans.

Jupiter has about 320 times the mass of the earth.

Canada Plans Wheat Test Crop In California

WINNIPEG.—Canada, just completing the harvest of a 550,000-bushel wheat crop, now is planning to grow another this year, but this time in the Imperial and Yuma valleys of California.

The 150-acre planting, to cost $60,000 is to test a new wheat strain, CP 186, developed at the laboratory of cereal breeding here. It is the plant breeders' first answer to R. 15B a stem rust which has threatened Canadian wheat fields since 1950.

The California crop, when it is harvested next April, will yield about 9,000 bushels. By the fall of 1957, stocks of CP 186 may total between 200,000-300,000 bushels. Laboratory officials are confident this amount will take care of 1954 demand in the rust epidemic areas of Manitoba and Saskatchewan.

"The Railway With A Personality" Has 347 Miles Of Scenic Beauty

QUENNEL, B.C.—The Pacific Great Eastern Railway doesn't claim to run the fastest or most luxurious rail service in the world. It's timetable merely makes the modest claim: "The railway with a personality." This is pretty accurate. So is the boast: "347 miles of superb scenic beauty."

The P.G.E. starts from Squamish 33 miles northwest of Vancouver and snakes through canyons and along lakeshores and riverbanks under the bulking shoulders of mountains to Quenel in the Cariboo.

Started in 1912, the P.G.E. will have its biggest moment in nearly four decades early next month when the 82-mile link will be completed northward from Quenel to Prince George. At Prince George, the P.G.E. will connect with Canadian National Railway's transcontinental line.

As owner of the railway, the B.C. government is laying on appropriate ceremonies for the occasion. Next year, the Legislature will be asked to approve a $10,000,000 appropriation to complete the P.G.E. from Squamish to Vancouver.

The P.G.E. takes 20 hours—more or less, usually more—to cover the 347 miles from Squamish to Quenel. On a recent trip, a new passenger pointed to the timetable and mentioned to the conductor that the train was 50 minutes late.

"Oh, we don't pay too much attention to that," the conductor replied genially. "When you mount the sleeping car at Squamish, a pleasant man in a white jacket helps you with your baggage. The next time you see him, he has a sleeping car conductor's cap and uniform on and is taking tickets. Next, he is back in his white jacket making up the berths."

"We don't waste any manpower on this line," said one employee. "Wouldn't it be silly to have a whole sleeping car conductor to handle just one car?"

The P.G.E. has 33 flat stops besides its 20 regular stops. But it may stop anywhere along the line to accommodate a lonely settler or to wait for a moose to get out of the way.

From June to September, the P.G.E. pulls an observation car at the rear. This is a flat car with
